

National Environmental Health Association

- Formed in 1937 in California to set the national standard for sanitarians
- An Association with 5000 members and 7500 credential holders
- Education and Training
- Credentialing
- Journal of Environmental Health
- Annual Educational Conference
- Associations in 48 states

National Environmental Health Association

- Environmental Health
 - Indoor air quality
 - Recreational waters
 - Drinking water
 - Wastewater management
 - Food safety
 - Radon

National Environmental Health Association

- Working on FSMA capacity building since 2011
- Updating and adding food safety credential building
- Updating and adding education and training

National Environmental Health Association

- FSMA expectations for training and capacity building
 - Human Food
 - Animal Food
 - Regulatory
 - Industry
 - QI
 - PCQI

National Environmental Health Association

- FSMA expectations for food safety plans
 - Supplier verifications
 - Food importers and foreign facilities
- NEHA's work
 - Integrated food safety system
 - National Curriculum Standard
 - Job task analyses and Knowledge Performance Indicators
 - Content development
 - FDA curriculum training cadre capacity building
 - Credential development and Deployment

National Environmental Health Association

- Certified Professional – Food Safety (CP-FS)
- Certified in Comprehensive Food Safety (CCFS)
- Animal Feed Inspector
- Certified in Food Safety Supplier Audits (CFSSA)
- Registered Food Safety Auditor (RFSA)

National Environmental Health Association

- Questions?
- Rance Baker – rbaker@neha.org
- www.NEHA.org